Course Attributes: GE3 Arts

Course Description: The largest combined choral ensemble of the College. Open to all students, faculty and community members on a non-audition basis. Consultation with the director is recommended before registering. May be repeated for credit.

Learning Outcomes: Students will:

- Rehearse and perform programs of outstanding choral music
- Develop the physical, mental, and aural skills that comprise good vocal technique.
- Develop confidence in performing for an audience.
- Develop an awareness of diverse musical styles and historical periods as they relate to choral performance

Membership: Open to both students and community residents. No audition is required for membership. However, the Director may require an audition to determine whether a member will perform in concert.

Grading: Students will be evaluated against themselves and not against each other. Students without much choral experience will not be judged against others with more. Everyone will be evaluated according to progress within the class, and not prior knowledge or experience.

Each member begins the semester with a grade of "B". An "A" can be earned by

- consistent attendance at rehearsals
- a disciplined and diligent approach to the music to be learned
- service to the choir in such capacities as section leader, librarian, or stage crew

The lack of the above may result in a grade lower than "B". In particular, each unexcused absence from rehearsal after the first will result in lowering the grade by two-thirds of a letter. For example:

Unexcused Absences	Maximum Possible Grade
0-1	A
2	B+
3	B-

Absence -- excused or unexcused -- from a dress rehearsal or concert will result in lowering the grade a minimum of one full letter.

Excused absences can be granted only for serious reasons, after consultation with the Director, in advance if at all possible.

Concert Dress:

Men: Dark suit or jacket, white shirt, long dark tie, black pants, black shoes, and socks

Women: Black blouse, black skirt (at least knee-length) or pants, black shoes and stockings

If you anticipate any difficulty in locating these items, please consult with the Director immediately.

Course Withdrawal Deadline: November 3

A minimum grade of C- is required in all courses that count toward the Music major.
